This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

CATALOGUE.

PREFATORY NOTE.

A time-honored custom demands a formal introduction of every volume to its readers; and, in deference to its requirements, this volume is thus presented to the collectors of books for their examination.

The Collection of Books of which this volume is a Catalogue, is an important one, and not without attractions to the intelligent bookbuyer. As a collection of Local Histories; of the Publications of Societies; of Biographies; of works on the North American Indians; of Washingtoniana; of Election, Thanksgiving, and Fast-Day Sermons; of Trials; of Early New England Theology; of Controversial Tracts on Banking, Theology, Politics, Law, Medicine, Temperance, etc.; of Fourth of July Orations; of College Publications; of Lincolniana; of works on the Rebellion and Slavery; of Sermons, etc., it may be said, truly, to have been surpassed in extent, variety, and value, by very few of even the most elaborate and best selected Libraries.

Of the Local Histories, including Centennial Discourses of Churches, Schools, Societies, etc., which it contains, not even a brief mention of them in detail can be made without encumbering this note and tiring the reader. Every page is sprinkled with their titles, and every State, and very often, every county of the several States, is represented in the list. The Index, at the close of the volume, refers to many, but not nearly to all of them; to which the reader's careful attention is respectfully directed.

Of the PUBLICATIONS OF SOCIETIES, the titles of which extend from page 148 to page 161, besides single specimens scattered elsewhere through the Catalogue, under the names of their several authors and of their peculiar localities, the Collection is unusually complete and valuable, as those who have sought such works will fully understand after having examined its pages.

Of the BIOGRAPHIES, in which may be included, not only the ordinary volumes of Biography, but Diaries, Journals, Personal Narratives, Funeral and Ordination Sermons, Trials, and other works of similar character, the Collection is very large and very important, containing not only those which are agreeable, but those which are notorious and depreciating in their tendencies.

Of the great variety of works on the NORTH AMERICAN INDIANS, embracing not only the more elaborate volumes of Adair, McKenny, Catlin, Schoolcraft, etc., but the numerous Personal Narratives, War Histories, Vocabularies, etc., especial mention cannot be made in detail; but an examination of the Index will indicate how numerous their titles are, and how important the Collection is to every lover of Bibliography.

The WASHINGTONIANA is described by their titles on pages 430–452; and even a passing glance will indicate the great variety and unusual importance of that portion of the Collection.

There are many other lines, however, scattered through the catalogue under the titles of their respective authors' names, which add to the interest of this specially attractive department; and those who are adding the works of this particular class to their libraries, will be repaid by a close examination of other portions of the Catalogue than that to which reference has been made.

The ELECTION SERMONS of Massachusetts extend with tolerable regularity, from 1720 until 1869, and those of Connecticut from 1766, with some deviation, to 1830; the THANKS-

pp. 1,2 are misplaced.

GIVING SERMONS, extending from 1786 until a recent date, are various and desirable; and the FAST-DAY SERMONS, range from 1753 until our own day. Without claiming any notable degree of perfection in these departments, the works which they contain will serve an excellent purpose in making complete many collections which are lacking in particular works.

The TRIALS number, among others, many of the most notable, including those of the British soldiers at Boston, Aaron Burr, Judge Blount, Joshua Hett Smith, Major Andrè, Ephraim Wheeler, E. C. Delavan, Alexander Whistelo, Levi Weeks, Rev. John N. Maffit, John C. Colt, Bishops Doane and Onderdonk, Sir Henry Vane, the Forrest Case, William Hone, Doctor S. F. Jarvis, Horace Greeley, the Prophet Matthias, Alexander McLeod, the Parrish and Lawrence Will Cases, D. E. Sickles, Prof. Webster, Rev. William Parkinson, etc., and it will be seen that those who have an inclination to this class of works, will enjoy a rare opportunity for extending their collections.

Of EARLY NEW ENGLAND THEOLOGY AND HISTORY the specimens are quite numerous, and generally of great variety. Without naming all, the works of such men as John Checkley, John Cotton, Thomas Hooker, Cotton and Samuel Mather, Benjamin Colman, John Dunton, Thomas Prince, Nathaniel Appleton, Thomas Sheppard, John Josselyn, John Davenport, Captain Thomas Wheeler, will be found in this Collection.

The CONTROVERSIAL TRACTS number many hundreds; and the particular subjects on which they treat are numerous and of every conceivable character; and the same remarks will apply, with equal propriety, to the hundreds, if not thousands, of Sermons which are clustered in this Collection.

Of FOURTH OF JULY ORATIONS the variety is very large; and many specimens will be found which will add immeasurably to the joys of those local collectors whose interests are centered in whatever relates to some particular places.

Of the PUBLICATIONS BY, OR CONCERNING COLLEGES, there are many which will serve to complete files, which, hitherto, have almost defied completion. There is no subject, however, (unless it may be its Washingtoniana) which this Collection can more honestly boast of than its LINCOLNIANA and PUBLICATIONS CONCERNING SLAVERY AND THE WAR OF SECESSION—the former numbering more than a hundred and fifty distinct publications and the titles of the latter ranging, not including the unarranged works, from page 303 to page 357.

But we need not continue this survey of the thousands of works which constitute this Collection. Every book-buyer will examine the Catalogue for himself; and every one will measure the merit of the Collection by a standard of his own selection.

The Catalogue was made and carried through the Press by the owner of the Collection, after the regular business of the day had been closed; and it makes no pretension whatever to bibliographical erudition. It was made for use rather than for show; and, although it is not without errors, it is believed to be very well adapted for the purpose for which it was prepared—the honest instruction of its readers concerning the character of the Collection.

The Books which are described in this Catalogue are generally in excellent condition; and they will be sold, at the time and place designated, without reserve.

The subject is now left in the hands of those whose tastes and opportunities shall lead them to attend this sale, with the assurance that what can be done, either by the owner of the Collection or by those who shall represent him, will be done to make the sale agreeable and satisfactory.

Folio. Vol. I., pp. 204, 48 Col. Portraits. Vol. II., (1842), 48 Plates. Vol. III., (1844), 24 Plates.

"As early as 1824, the practice was begun of taking portraits of the principal Indians, who came to the seat of government, and of depositing them in the War Department. The project was approved and aided by the Executive, and under the management of Col. M'Kenney, then Superintendent of Indian Affairs, the number rapidly increased, till a very interesting gallery was formed. They were chiefly painted by Mr. King, an artist of high repute in this branch of the profession, who, by his long residence in Washington, and frequent opportunities of studying the subject of his pencil, has been remarkably successful in transferring to his canvas, the strong lineaments of the Indian countenance. Having this rare and curious collection before him, Col. M'Kenney conceived the plan of making it more valuable to the world by publishing a series of engraved portraits, exactly copied and colored from these paintings. With each portrait is connected a biographical sketch of the individual whom it is intended to represent, drawn from original materials, and interspersed with anecdotes and narrations, many of which are spirited and strikingly graphic. The work contains also a historical account of the various tribes of Indians within the borders of the United States, and particularly of those situate to the eastward of the Mississippi. This essay forms a rare and valuable contribution to Indian History."

Dawson, Esq., has reprinted the speech of John Checkley upon his Tryal at Boston, in 1724, and in his very valuable Historical Magazine for May, 1868, says: "Mr. John Checkley was a native of Boston, who was educated at Oxford; became a publisher and bookseller at the 'sign of the Crown and Blue Gate, over against the West End of the Town House in Boston;' and was soon out of favor with those in authority in that model republican locality. They accordingly arrested Checkley; and they tried him on a trumped up charge; they dare not face the music like men, just as those who have succeeded them in that department dare not face it to-day. He defended himself in a speech of great merit; but the magistrates and ministers carried too many guns, and Checkley was convicted," etc. One Hundred Copies of this speech were reprinted in elegant style on tinted laid paper for private circulation.

Dedicated to the Posterity of John Winthrop.

"Mr. Winthrop kept a Journal of every important occurrence from his first embarking in America, in 1630, to the year 1644. This Manuscript, as appears by some passages, was originally designed for publication; and it was formerly consulted by the first compilers of New England History, particularly by HUBBARD, MATHER and PRINCE. On reading the work, the editor (N. Webster) found it to contain many curious and interesting facts relating to the settlement of Massachusetts and the other New England Colonies, and highly descriptive of the character and views of the first inhabitants. By consent of the descendants of Gov. Winthrop, proposals were issued for publishing a small number of copies.—Editor's Preface.

When Gov. Hutchinson wrote his History of Mass,, in giving an account of the Expedition (Hist. Mass., Vol. I., 265), in which his ancestor sustained such an important part and lost his life, it does not appear that he has made any reference whatever to Captain Wheeler's Narrative, which he most likely would have done had he known of its existence. See No. 230 of this Catalogue. We give the following extract from the Preface—

"I Purposing to Publish this ensuing Narrative of God's Providence towards Capt. Hutchinson and myself and others, and the Sermon preached on the occasion hereafter, do Judge it expedient to give you a little further account of matters, occasioning the going of Captain Hutchinson and myself to Quabaug, and also of the Motives inducing me to the Publication of both to the world," etc.

We refer to W. E. Woodward's Catalogue, where this identical copy brought $72, unbound, and its condition was not very desirable; but having passed through the hands of the best binder in England (F. Bedford), at an additional expense of $40, it is now, without any doubt, the finest copy in existence.

"The Book is pioneered by no parade of puffery. I despise it. No dazzling name of a distinguished publisher blazing on the title-page; none of the velvet trickery that smooths a fashionable writer's works into pic-nic patronage. Bell's undertaken to ring the death-bell of neglect, and if I can ring the Great Belle of my affections, shan't care if the Critics put my popularity to bed with a shovel. In short, if the life of my poetry is wholesome, 'twill breathe, after the wild spirit that inspired it has been sobered at the terrible tribunal of Eternity, and the weak hand that traced it, long wasted to ashes."—M'D. C. We give one of his poems in full, entitled—A LATE DEATH AT NEW LONDON.—

Poor Kit is gone—
A funnier fellow never was born,
—Mirth must wear for the Captain, a double reefed weed—
Many a morn,
When a boy, in 1807,
Have I stood on Frink's stoop,
With New-London's jolliest group,
And haw, haw'd and he, he'd,
At his ripping fun.
* * * * *
Is it all done—done?—
Well—by the setting sun
He could laugh, as well as by the rising rays,
For his was an intellect, always a-blaze.
Here's a song to the olden days,
The memory of 1807—
Good Heaven! how Time waddles away,
But as long as the spirit doesn't get gray,
It matters not—'tis nature's lot—
To be forgot when the dim hour comes,
And not leave of Thought's luxuries, a few poor crumbs,
Is all that should make us sigh
When I come to die, may noble natures join,
And say, he could flush the World's heart like old wine,
And may some merry fellow,
On Mac's memory get mellow,
Pleasantly sit,
As I do, o'er dear o'd Kitt,
By the darkly setting sun.
Tell of the sumptuous fun
He had with Donald in his Bunkum days;
For posthumous praise,
That comes from the heart, and makes the tears start,
And waves the willow leaves over our sod,
Is grateful to man, and accepted of God.

NEW-YORK:

Re-printed by JOHN HOLT, at the Exchange, 1770.

This was the first attempt in New York to muzzle the press. Andrew Hamilton, of Philadelphia, was Zenger's Counsel; Zenger was acquitted, and the people, to express their approbation of the verdict, entertained Hamilton at a public dinner, and the Corporation presented him with the freedom of the city in a gold box. On his departure, he was honored with salutes of cannon.—Lossing, Field Book, Vol. II., 580. Zenger was imprisoned thirty-five weeks; the excitement at his trial was intense. The following is the closing up of Mr. Hamilton's argument for the defence: "But to conclude, the question before the court, and to you, gentlemen of the jury, is not of small nor private concern; it is not the cause of a poor Printer, nor of New York alone, which you are now trying! No! It may in its consequence affect every free man that lives under a British government on the main of America. It is the best cause; it is the cause of Liberty; and I make no doubt but your upright conduct this day will not only entitle you to the love and esteem of your fellow citizens; but every man who prefers freedom to a life of slavery will bless and honour you, as men who have baffled the attempt of Tyranny; and by an impartial and uncorrupt verdict, have laid a noble foundation for securing to ourselves, our posterity and our neighbors, that, to which nature and the laws of our country have given us a right—the Liberty—both of exposing and opposing arbitrary power (in these parts of the world, at least,) by speaking and writing truth."

HARTFORD:
Printed by WATSON AND GOODWIN. (1778).

This document, which does not seem to be of much importance, if we look merely at the title, has, however, a very interesting history, and we subjoin the following extract from Ira Allen's History of Vermont. (See No. 2677). "The Council of Safety again paid attention to the Constitution, and made a preamble, stating the reasons why the citizens had rejected all connections with New York; but as there was not time, before the day assigned for the election, to print and publish the constitution, therefore the convention was summoned to meet at Windsor, in December, 1777; they met, revised the constitution, and appointed the first election to be on the 12th day of March, 1778. One difficulty was discovered by some members of the convention, who concluded the best way to evade it was, to keep it in as small a circle as possible; the difficulty was, to establish the Constitution without the voice of the people, further than was vested in the convention by their credentials, that authorized them to form a constitution, but were silent as to its ratification, and they had no ancient government to predicate their claims upon; besides intestine divisions and different opinions prevailed among the people, and even in the convention. To avoid discord, a large majority, in one instance, conformed to a minority, when deliberating on the articles of the constitution. As the people seemed inclined for a popular government, the constitution was so made, and for the better satisfying those who might choose any difference in the form of government, and as circumstances or increasing knowledge might make it necessary, a principle was established in the constitution, by which legal means might be taken to alter or amend the constitution once in seven years agreeable to the will of the majority of the freemen of the State, which, if perpetuated, would transmit to prosperity the same privileges of choosing how they would be governed, as the people of that day exercised from the inherent right of nature, without revolution or bloodshed. Had the constitution been then submitted to the consideration of the people for their revision, amendment, and ratification, it is very doubtful whether a majority would have confirmed it, considering the resolutions of Congress, and their influence at that time, as well as the intrigues and expense of the provincial Congress of New York, who endeavoured to divide and subdivide the people. Under these circumstances the Convention appointed Ira Allen to see the constitution printed and distributed before the election. Mr Allen returned from Hartford, in Connecticut, a few days before the time of the general election, with the Constitution printed, and dispersed it. There was one (or more) in each town who coveted the honour of being a member in the first general assembly of the new State of Vermont. It was, therefore, their interest to induce their friends to attend the meeting, and take the freeman's oath. This was done, and representatives were elected, and attended the Assembly at Windsor, on the 12th of March, 1778, when and where the votes of the freemen for a Governor, a Lieutenant Governor, 12 Counsellors, and a Treasurer, were sorted and counted, and the persons who had the majority of votes for the respective offices, were declared duly elected. Thus the Constitution of the State of Vermont was put in force."

"Lamented youth! while with inverted spear
The British legions pour th' indignant tear!
Round the dropt arm the funeral scarf entwine,
And in their heart's deep core thy worth enshrines;
While my weak Muse, in fond attempt and vain,
But feebly pours a perishable strain,
Oh! ye distinguishable few! whose glowin lays
Bright Phœbus kindles with his purest rays,
Snatch from its radiant source the living fire,
And light with Vestal flame your ANDRÈ'S HALLOWED PYRE!"
